From the Boston Traveler.

At the last meeting of the New England Historical-Genealogical Society, the Rev. Mr. Nason, of Natick, read a memoir in manuscript of Sir Charles H. Franklin, who was the collector of the port of Boston, in the reign of George II. He was the great-great-grandson of Oliver Cromwell, and was born in 1717, at the seat of his family, in Thistlebury, North Riding of Yorkshire, where Thistlebury, North Riding of Yorkshire, where the baronet, his descendant, now resides. In 1747, as the fourth baronet, he inherited the baronety. He had his choice of the two most desirable properties of the two most desirable properties of the two most desirable properties. onetry. He had his choice of the two most de-sirable appointments in the Massachusetts Colony, the Governorship of the Colony and the Collect-orship of Boston, and he chose the latter. While in Boston he was a worshiper at the Old King's Chapel, and contributed £50 toward the erection While here he had occasion to visit Marble-head; and there he saw a young girl of sixteen, with raven ringlets, scrubbing the floor; but beneath the homely attire he discovered a matchless beauty. She was a working girl at the tavern, and apparently one of the lowest class. Her name was Agnes Surrage, although it appears in the records of England as Agnes Brown. There is now in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society a record of herbanism in April 1762 Society a record of her baptism in April, 1736.

He accosted her, and gave her money to buy shoes with, as she was barefooted, and then he G, No. 9 Virginia Avenue,

The indignation which this caused among the social circle was great, and he determined to transfer his home elsewhere. Rev. Roger Price had taken up lands in Hopkinton, and Sir Charles Franklin obtained one hundred and thirty acres of it, and built upon it a fine mansion, which he

Mr. Nason here read extensive extracts from the diary kept at Lisbon by the Baronet, the first time the word God appeared in it being subsequent to the great earthquake, which produced a change in the character of the Baronet. At the time of the earthquake Sir Charles was abroad in his carriage, when the horses were swallowed up in the opening earth, and the carriage covered by the ruins of falling buildings. There he lay in a living tomb for some time, expecting to be crushed to death at every moment. In the agony of that hour, a young Spanish girl, who was with crushed to death at every moment. In the agony of that hour, a young Spanish girl, who was with him, bit through his scarlet coat a piece of flesh. The coat was alterward brought to Hopkinton. While in this dangerous position, the evils of his past life came to his mind forcibly, and he resolved to live a better life should he be saved. Meantime his faithful Agnes was abroad in search of him, and being providentially led to the spot, where, hearing his voice, she offered large rewards for his rescue. He was finally extricated, taken to a friend's house, and, faithful to his you, he the next day led Agnes to the hymencal altar, and they were married by a Romish Priest. Republican Semination in the Third The Republican Congressional Convention for the Third District, held at Verson on the 8th inst, recommended McKee Dunn as their candidate for Congress. Mr. Dunn is a gentleman of fair talents, and is distinguished chiefly for a zealous advocacy of all the fanatical notions of the day. He is an out-and-out abolitionist, and entertains most profound respect for the negro. He is in favor of making the long-heeled race the social and political equal of the white man; conferring upon negroes the right of suffrage, making them jurymen, judges and legislators. The intelligent voters of the Third District have too much respect for themselves to indorse such abominable entiments, by electing a man who entertains them to a high legislative position. The Convention was small in numbers, without enthusiasm and were only in session about an hour.

Currency in Cincinnati. Our market for Tennessee, Illinois and Wisconsin currency is unsettled. Advices from Wisconsin, showing the existence of a large numbe of irresponsible banks in that State, have operate rably upon the credit of Western generally. Illinois and Wisconsin free banks are now quoted at 2 discount. Tennessee free banks range from 2½ to 10 discount, and there is no disposition to buy freely at these figures. This rant, more bloody, more brutal, more corrupt, in class of Tennessee banks is in bad repute, owing Maryland or Mississippi, Georgia or Texas, than in to the defalcations, robberies. &c., that have been committed recently, by officials in that State, who had charge of the securities. The Judge contends that he had not a fair trial, and the case will probably be carried into court by the ladies, if not by the Judge. The former having no connection with the church, it is contended that the members of the Society who acted in the matter, are individ-ually liable for damages. GARMA IN TOWN.-Honogable Michael C. MONETARY & COMMERCIAL. Sarber, the remarkable chairman of the Repub lican State Central Committee, arrived in town yesterday, looking as fresh and rosy as the most calous disciple of Bourbon. We understand that it took two cars to bring this embodiment of Republicanism from the foot of the inclined plane. Garber has come over from Madison to "fix up" the Republican party generally. We have no doubt but he, and Dawson and Heilsche will get it into pretty much of a "fix." We understand that he has the freedom of the saloons while in the city, and, with Heilscher, is pledging that the Republican candidates for the Supreme Bench are in favor of free whisky. The Honorable Mr. Garber stops at either the Bates House or the Uncle Sam Saloon, both on Illinois street, but which we are not advised. We would caution Mr. Garber to be a little prudent while in town, as the Republican Mayor and officials are enforcing the city statutes against drunkenness and vagrancy, but on account of political sympathy they may overlook his case, if an exigency should arise.

On motion of J. Glancy Jones, of Pennsylvania, it was resolved to hold evening sessions, taking a recess from four till six o'clock.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the Senate's amendment to the Naval Appro-

EVENING SESSION.

The Senate's amendment appropriating 200,000 for five steam screw sloops-of-warthe greatest draft of water not to exceed four-teen feet, and one side-wheel war-steamer, with draft not to exceed eight feet—for service in the Chinese Seas having been received, re, instead of the Navy for peace are needed in the Navy for peace which, in view of our foreign relations, should be complete to prevent war, for weakness always invited aggressions, while strength repels it. He recommended this as a measure of mercy. There recommended this as a measure of mercy. There recommended this as a measure of mercy.

recommended this as a measure of mercy. There is a full complement of mechanics and laborers now at our Navy Yards making repairs; many of which are not needed would be put to work at once on these ships. Mr. Bocock's amendment was agreed to—yeas 91, nays 43.

Mr. Hatch proposed an amendment, appropriating for the building of four additional war steamers on the North-western Lakes, within the limitation of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain. He had heard war speeches, but did not know whether there would be war or not, while the citizens on the lakes have marine and are capable of taking care of their common defense. If their harbors and channels are not improved they will ask that equal protection be given to these inland seas. If sloops-of-war with Dahlgreen's guns, are needed on the Atlantic and Gulf, they are wanted on the Western Lakes.

Mr. Hatch's amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Hatch's amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Lovejoy said it was a most preposterous idea that in order to keep peace we must go armed. A person armed was more likely to get into a quarrel than one unarmed. It was unchristian and uncivilized to go armed, and utterly useless. The proposition for gunboats was a perfect fizzle; they are not adequate means of defense, and their building would only take money out of the Treasury.

mr. Garnet objected to the amendment on the ground that, if there was a prospect of war, there were not ships enough, and could not be finished in time. No good would grow out of the proposition but good for stock-jobbers and demagogues. He did not believe that any war will hereafter take place with Great Britain. The whole effect of adjourning over difficulties had been that they have been uniformly settled in our favor. The greatest allies are Time and Providence. greatest allies are Time and Providence. There is commerce and work and verge enough for both nations. There is no rivalry. We can wait till next year for building these vessels, when there will be more money in the Treasury.

Mr. Cochrane proposed to add ten more iron boats with full steam power, the greatest draft to be ten feet, armed and provided for service in the waters adjacent to the continent. This was a peace measure and yet in time of needs the inthe waters adjacent to the continent. This was a peace measure, and yet, in time of peace, the insolence of an arrogant power sends her hounds after our commerce and demands the right of visitation and search, and our vessels are pursued by these foul monsters of the deep, and our rights trampled under foot, and yet the gentleman affects to treat the Senate's amendment with affects to treat the Senate's amendment with contempt.

Mr. Grow was opposed to the amendment, and all efforts to create a war in the absence of official information through the proper channels. When the flag of the country is insulted, and the rights of citizens violated by any nation on the face of the earth which refuses to give reparation, then it will be time for Congress to take action, and not leave it discretionary with every man to provoke a war by appealing to the public passions or violence. Whatever may occur in the Gulf, he did not believe that Great Britain would take a position other than that before avowed through Lord Aberdeen to Mr. Everett, in 1841.

Mr. Cochrane's amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Cochrane's amendment was agreed to.
Mr. Savage offered an amendment for ten steam frigates, but no money is to be appropriated until the President gives notice for the abrogation of the Clayton Bulwer Treaty. He said that on a former occasion he had used the language which he now repeated—that the treaty was an infamous bargain and contract; that no man in America should by implication, approves of it. It was the cause of all the evils of the last few years. When the

Mr. Blair submitted an amendment providing for ten war steamers to be employed on the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri and Arkansas rivers as snag-boats. [Laughter]. He believed that the whole object in maintaining the Navy was the protection of commerce, and pointed to the extension of commerce of the Western waters, to which he desired the attention of the Government.

from his statement respecting the letter of Bell, and other documents. It was manifest that tion that nothing has been elicited to show in the slightest degree that the Secretary of War or Mr. pers, causing different views of the facts. It is sangatest degree that the Secretary of war of Mr. Schell acted corruptly; but that there are circumstances connected with the manner of transaction, which indicate much carelessness on the part of the Government, and a want of due forethought remarks of the second of the Senator from Misremarks of the second of the Senator from Mis-sissippi there was an asperity of tone which he would not have used had the facts been presented to him.

Mr. Davis replied, saying that the misunderstanding had arisen from the cause stated. It was, however, some justification in the delicate position he is placed toward the Secretary of War; and to his mind, it appeared as if an imputation was implied that he wished to undermine a recommendation of the Secretary of War by directing the appropriation he asked for to another recting the appropriation he asked for to another object. His manner was not offensive in inten ion, and it is due to himself to say that he is incapable of injuring the feelings of any one.

Anger is contagious, and he thought the Senator from Louisiana exhibited angry feelings in his remarks. A printed memorial from Judge Watrous, of Texas, was this morning laid on the desk of every member of the House, in which he emphati-cally denies that the people of Texas expect or call for his impeachment, and pronounces the as-sertion as a calumny on them as well as on himself. He says that he feels conscious that the charges against him are unjust and untrue; but if the House is not prepared to give him a full, com-plete and free acquittal, he desires such a course aken as will bring it to a conclusion in the mod provided for by the Constitution, namely—a trial. A challenge passed yesterday between Senators Benjamin, of Louisiana, and Davis, of Mississippi, in consequence of offensive language used in de bate on the Army Bill. It is believed, however, that through the intercession of friends the affair has already been satisfactorily arranged, or is in progress of adjustment.

Private advices have been received from Commander Rodgers, of the United States steamer Water Witch, at Key West, stating that a British vessel had been dispatched after the steamer Styx, with official instructions to cease the visitation of American vessels; and further, that the British cruisers are acting under no new orders, but those of 1847. The news has produced a good effect at Washington.

In the car he selected were four other persons, two mammas and two daughters The two mothers were face to face in one corner. the young man took the opposite, and found himself face to face with the young ladies. The young men put on a distraught and absent air. The conductor came to demand the tickets. The young man paid no attention at all, when the request was many times rejeated. Roused from his reverie in presence of the ladies, the young man had recourse to a ruse, to avoid exciting ridicule. "What are you saying?" said he. "Why do you not speak French?" The conductor then explained by signs, the ticket was changed, and the young man returned to his reverle; and not to enjoy it long, for this time the young ladies aroused him. They began in

BURNET HOUSE. THE SUBSCRIBER TAKES THIS opportunity of greeting his old friends, patrons and the public generally, and begs leave to state that the above magnificent establishment—architecturally and otherwise the finest in America—will henceforth be conducted on a scale of enlarged liberality and accommedation worthy its widely extended reputation.

In sympathy with the spirit of retrenchment and economy rendered imporative by the stringency of the times, and pervading all classes, the price of daily board will from this date be reduced to Two Dollars.

The advantages of the Burnet House over all other Hetels in Cincinnati, are manifold; among which are more liberal and elegant architecture, numerous and easily accessible offices of public convenience, the finest Dining Reoms, and leadle Brawing Room in America. The most liberal arrangement for taking meals, embracing nearly every hour in the twenty-four, great centralness of situation, and close proximity to all prominent places of business.
